HW:

The attached three clippings might find a place in your EMK file. Lyn Nofziger, the subject of the Evans & Novak column, was sent to California to run the Nixon campaign under Reagan a couple of weeks or so after the column appeared. His influence apparently shows up in the second clipping in Reagan's attack on Ted. Unfortunately the story on Nofziger's transfer to California is buried somewhere in the still-unclipped papers. When we get to it we'll resurrect it and send you a copy. And we thought it was interesting that Arthur Krock, who is not usually given to fantacizing, should supply the third clipping to indicate the latent potential of a Ted draft.
